

Sir Daruma had already waited a decade to have his only wish come true. He could wait a few minutes longer while a red being of greater size rested her tongue or whatever that thing was upon his head. Though this separate whole was much larger than he, Sir Daruma did not feel intimidated. No fear, no siree.